Preface and Authors Comments

Welcome! Thank you for reading the California State 4-H Interview Contest Manual. This contest was first started at the 2008 California State 4-H Field Day. At the first contest, we had twenty-five members complete in the contest and received wonderful support for the future of this contest! After this success, this manual and contest became my senior project to help 4-H members prepare to effectively present themselves, gain personal and professional skills and be prepared for any type of interview.

This manual was developed out of the use of books, classes, workshops and personal experience. It is my goal that the tips in this manual will not only help members prepare for the contest, but be lifelong lessons to help in scholarship, college, job, club, organization, leadership positions and career interviews. It is also my goal to help members grow personally and learn to effectively present themselves to others. As a senior at California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo, I have seen many of my friends struggle with interviewing and presenting themselves. It is my hope that this manual will help 4-H members avoid this struggle and succeed at all interviews!

This manual is composed of Part One for members and leaders on tips to interviewing and presenting yourself. The sections are designed to be handouts and can be used as a lesson plan. There is an Appendix for this part with examples to help members write résumés and cover letters and practice questions. Part Two of the manual focuses on the organizing of a contest. This can be on the project, club, county, sectional or state level. It goes through how to organize the contest, orientation of judges and how to evaluate interviewers. It also has an Appendix for references on examples, job descriptions, questions and the evaluation rubric.

This contest is still new and will see improvements in future years. Please use this manual, make comments and suggestions, and help this contest and manual to evolve to help future 4-H members succeed! Thank you.

Demeanor and Dress Tips!

You have a minute to make a Great First Impression!

Demeanor

- Grooming- Make sure your hair is brushed and teeth clean. By sure to go over your body head-to-toe to make sure you look your best!
- Smile! Before you walk in to the interview, while in, and as you are thanking the interviewers. It helps you feel confident too!
- Handshake- Practice your handshake! Not too firm, but let people know you are there. Always look people in the eyes when you shake their hand for maximum effect and respect.
- Sitting- Ladies, sit with your legs together and cross at your ankles, not your knees. This will keep your legs together and not reveal anything. Gentlemen, sit with your legs together and up straight.

Dress

- Importance is on professional and conservative. Avoid “trendy” outfits.
- Always over-dress to be sure not to appear under-dressed.
- Avoid flashy accessories- earrings, piercing, jewelry, hair, make-up, etc.
- Watch low cut blouses, see through blouses, skirts that are too short, mismatching prints or stained clothes. Colors are good, but avoid flashy or distracting colors.
- The devil is in the details! Set out what you are going to wear the night before to make sure it is pressed, clean and looks great!

Interview Preparation Tips!

Preparation Will Help You Practice, and Practice Helps Make Perfect!

1. Review the position description, company or organization.
   Be sure to understand the position, the company offering it and where you might fit in the industry. This knowledge will help you prepare for the interview and show your interviewers that you are prepared and excited for the position. Information can be found on the internet, the newspaper and talking to employees.

2. Match skills listed in the description to experiences or skills that you have.
   Understand these matches and practice how to communicate them to your interviewers. This can be through questions that they might ask or incorporating them to other topics. You can also think of questions that you might ask them that showcase your skills.

3. Practice questions that interviewers are likely to ask.
   Find questions in the Appendix and practice questions. You don’t want to sound “canned” or have responses that are memorized, but it does help you organize answers and showcase your skills that make you a perfect fit for the position.

4. Select three things that you want the interviewers to know about you.
   These three things can include skills, values, or experiences that you want the interviewers to remember about you. These should exemplify your abilities and show that you are a perfect fit for the position. This is your chance to make your mark and show your personality!

5. In answers, use examples to show you can do a particular thing, instead of just telling them that you can do it.
   Everyone can tell someone that they can do something, but it is different when you can show someone. If you can share an experience, it allows the interviewers to see your personality and brings the experience to life.
Interview Question Tips!

Don’t Just Answer Questions, Wow Your Interviewer with Your Answers!

Interview Questions can be about you, your skills, your experiences or the position, company or organization. To be prepared for your interview, be prepared for all types of questions!

Examples are:

You Questions
- Tell me about yourself.
- Who are your role models? Why?
- What do you consider to be your greatest strengths? Greatest weaknesses?
- Where do you see yourself in 1, 3, or 5 years?

Skill Questions
- How do you rate your written communication skills?
- What is your typical role in a group?
- How do you teach others something new?
- What skill do you want to improve? How do you plan to do this?

Experience Questions
- Tell us about a time when you worked well on a team.
- Describe a time when you wished you had done more planning.
- Have you ever had to take charge of a project to get it done on time?

Position/Company/Organization Questions
- What aspect of this position interests you most?
- What contributions can you make to our company?
- Why should we hire you?

Answers should be:
- Direct and Concise
- Answer the question that is asked
- Use examples to show experiences in answers
- Express your personality in answers
- Organized and complete answers
Adding Your Personal Touch to An Interview Tips!

Make Your Mark to Help Stand Out!

5 Simple Ways To Make Your Mark!

1. Personally sign your cover letter.
   Sign with Blue or Black ink. This will show your interviewers that you value details and a personal touch in your work.

2. Don’t just use a template letter or résumé.
   Add headings when you have a lot of experience in an area, such as Community Service. Remember to add personality to your cover letter to bring it and your résumé to life!

3. Shake your interviewers hand before and after the interview.
   It’s polite to greet with a handshake and wait to be asked to be seated. Finishing with a hand shake says thank you and that you appreciate their time. Remember—no handshake is complete without a smile!

4. Include relevant personal experiences that show your experience and personality.
   Bring your answers to life with real examples! Don’t forget that personality is shown through your words, your eyes, your hand gestures and your smile! It will also make you less nervous if you can be confident and be yourself.

5. A hand written thank you note is always appreciated.
   Saying thank you or writing an email might do, but nothing is better than taking the time to show how much you mean thank you. A simple note and a few lines is all you need to show this gratitude and make someone’s day.
10 Ways to Win an Interview
Compiled From The Everything Job Interview Book, By Bob Adams, 2001

1. Be Prepared
   Be prepared by thinking out the interview before it happens. Know where it will be held, arrive 15 minutes early, and bring an extra copy of your cover letter and résumé just in case!

2. Dress Appropriately
   Dress conservatively and it’s always good to over-dress instead of under-dress. Dress also includes not having too much jewelry or makeup! Remember details make the difference.

3. Be Confident
   Smile and believe in yourself. If you believe in yourself, your interviewers are more than likely to believe in you. Be careful not to sound cocky or conceited, but take pride in your skills and experiences that make you the perfect choice.

4. Make Eye-Contact
   This can be difficult when you are nervous, but this is one of the best ways to show confidence. Make eye-contact with the person asking the question and then slowly roam making contact with each person, so you don’t seem shifty or nervous.

5. Show Your Enthusiasm
   Be excited to be at the interview! Show that you are eager and willing to learn, and excited about what the interviewer is discussing with you. This is done both with your words and body language!

6. Know the Position
   Understand what you will be doing and form any questions you have about those tasks. Find matches between what you want to do and what the position offers.

7. Know the Industry
   Understand where the company or organization fits in the industry and what their mission or goals are. This will help you see the big picture and where you might fit in that company or organization.

8. Know the Company
   You might get the question, “Tell me what you know about this company.” or you may have to insert information about the company in your answers. Either way, it shows dedication and that you did your homework when you know about the company!

9. Practice
   Practice makes perfect! Don’t memorize answers, but think about possible questions and how you might respond. Watch your non-verbal communication such as eye and facial expressions in the mirror or with a friend! You’ll be confident and prepared if you practice.

10. Follow Up
    Whether it’s a thank you note, a call, or a quick email, thank the interviewer for their time soon after the interview, usually done within two days. This will keep your name at the top of their mind and shows that you appreciated their time.

Additional Tips!

Excel in your next real interview with these additional tips!

Thank You’s
Thank you notes have been mentioned several times throughout this manual and there are some tips for sending them after your next real interview.

You can choose to email or write a handwritten thank you. Here are some general guidelines to follow for either option.

- All types of thank you’s should be sent within two days of the interview.
- Make sure the style of the thank you matches the organizational culture of the company you interviewed with.
- For all types of thank you’s, be sure to use correct grammar, spelling and punctuation.
- Thank you’s should include thanking them for their time and the opportunity to interview with them. You may want to include something special that you remembered about interview panel, company or the interview. Be genuine!
- A hand written note is appreciated, especially in a business or organization that would focus on providing a personal touch to others.
- Choose professional and classic note cards and write the note in ink.
- Send an email thank you for a company that is more technology focused or has a fast turn around time for decisions.
- Another thank you method includes a phone call, which would follow the same guidelines as what to write on a thank you.

Here are some appreciation words to consider using in your next thank you note.

- Beneficial
- Character
- Excellence
- Fine
- Great
- Importance
- Impressive
- Kind

- Outstanding
- Pleasant
- Rewarding
- Special
- Superb
- Treasure
- Value
- Worthwhile
Excel in your next real interview with these additional tips!

Employment or Job Applications

Every job application may be different, but there are some important tips to remember to have for any application.

- Be sure to write in blue or black ink and print legibly or type the application.
- Be sure that the application is complete with no blanks. If it does not apply to you, put N/A or Not Applicable.
- Personal Information includes your address, phone number and your social security number.
- Educational Information includes your schools, their addresses, courses completed, GPA and degrees conferred.
- Work Experience includes the name of the company and address, supervisor name and contact information, job duties, dates of employment, reason for leaving and salary or hourly wage.
- References should be people to confirm your information or character. These usually cannot be relatives or siblings. Include the reference name, position title, company, address and contact information.
- Some may ask for availability on the days of the week and times.
- Electronic applications may ask you to upload a cover letter and résumé. Be sure to have them ready and in a PDF format if it has a lot of formatting such as columns or bullet points.

Contest Format and Set Up

The contest can be as large or small as needed. Each applicant turns in a cover letter, résumé and goes through a 5-10 minute interview. This contest is currently called the Interview Contest, but is based on job positions. This manual provides all the necessary information for the contest organizer and Part One includes information for Project Leaders and Members.

The Contest Format is:
• Organizing Party provides two to three job positions for each age category. These should be posted at least one month prior to the contest.
• Questions for each age category and position should be compiled prior to the contest. These do not need to be posted, but should consist of questions based on the position, skills and about the member. Sample questions are provided in Appendix Two.
• For the contest, there should be two to three judges for each age category.
• There should be one room for each age category being judged, unless all categories are judged together, such as in small contests.
• Provide a holding room for contestants and a room host to help coordinate moving members to rooms for the interview.
• Judges will evaluate the interview based on the 4-H Interview Contest evaluation rubric, provided in this manual.
• Judges also judge the cover letter and résumé based on guidelines in this manual. Constructive criticism and comments are highly encouraged.
• Résumés and cover letters are returned to members so they can improve based on the comments and constructive criticism that is provided.
• Awards are presented according to Club, County, Sectional or State guidelines.

The set up can be changed by the size of the contest, but the basic format for the 4-H Interview Contest will remain the same.

Contest Set Ups might be:

Contest Timeline and Checklist

Ideal County Contest Timeline*
* This timeline is for a County Contest but can be easily adapted to all desired levels. Dates are guidelines, but for a smoothly run contest, information should be provided as early as possible so any questions or concerns can be addressed prior to the contest.

Two Months Before .................. Post two to three job descriptions for each age category being judged.

Two Months Before .................. Post the Contest Rubric and help sheets for résumés, cover letters and interviews. This information can be found in Part One of this manual and examples are provided in the Appendix.

At least One Month Before .......... Gather judges for the contest. Two to Three judges per category. Organizers are encouraged to gather a variety of judges. Please see Recruiting Judges in this manual.

Normal Registration .................. The contest can be provided as a pre-registration contest to know numbers of participating members and be accurate in gathering judges.

Optional ............................. Have résumés and cover letters sent in prior to contest to judge before the contest day.

Two Weeks Before ................... Go through the contest checklist to verify that all items are covered.

Morning of Contest ..................... Orientate all judges on rubric and guidelines. Make sure they understand the contest, moving up past this level and providing constructive criticism.

Contest Checklist:

☐ Do you have the rooms needed for all categories?
☐ Do you have the judges you need?
☐ If collecting résumés and cover letters prior to the contest, are they organized in age categories for judge accessibility?
☐ Do you have questions for each age group and position compiled and printed for each judge?
☐ Do you have guidelines on judging cover letters and résumés printed for judges?
☐ Do you have the 4-H Interview Contest rubric printed for judges and enough for all possible contestants?
☐ Do you have an orientated room host to help coordinate the contestants?
☐ Do you have pencils provided for judges?
☐ Have you orientated judges on the rubric and guidelines for cover letters and résumés?
☐ Are judges informed of the encouragement to wear professional dress, but that it is not required and that members cannot be discounted for not wearing it?
☐ Have you provided guidelines on providing constructive criticism to positively help members grow and learn?
☐ Do you have the awards needed for this contest?

Comments should be constructive. These materials will be returned to the members to help them continue to learn and grow through this contest.

Judges should complete the lower part of the rubric at completion of judging the interview, résumé and cover letter.

Professional attire or 4-H uniform are not required, but are encouraged. Please remember that the actual dress and member needs only to be clean and neat in appearance.

Résumés and cover letters are encouraged to be typed and presented on appropriate paper, but may not be discounted if they are not.
Recruiting Judges

Organizing Parties are encouraged to recruit a variety of judges for a diverse background of experiences and help!

Examples of Judges Can Be:

- Volunteer Leaders
- Local Community Leaders
- City Council Members
- 4-H Council Members
- 4-H Alumni
- Teachers
- Human Resources Professionals
- Representatives from Local Organizations
- Representatives from Local Companies
- Representatives from Local Fair Sponsors
- College Professors

Guidelines for Recruiting Judges

- Ask well in advance of contest
- Bring in people with diverse backgrounds to get maximum help and different perspectives. Example: a Business member, a teacher and a 4-H leader
- Orientate judges with 4-H background, goals and the 4-H life skills wheel
- Properly orientate all judges on the rubric and cover letter and résumé guidelines
- Orientate judges on contest structure to advancement to higher levels and awards
- Answer any questions and check in on judges

Judges are encouraged to:

- Wear Business Casual dress and be neat and appropriate
- Provide constructive criticism and comment on the interview, résumé and cover letter.
- View this judging opportunity as a connection with a younger generation and help them grow personally and professionally.
Judge’s Orientation

Please use in conjunction with the Rubric Explanation, Judging Cover Letters and Judging Résumé sections of this manual.

☐ Interviews
The member will have a 5-10 minute interview applying for a position in their age category. The rubric evaluates this in the following sections:

✓ Interview Answers- based on the answers they provide to questions in the interview. These answers should be used to exemplify their skills.

✓ Position Knowledge and Coverage- Based on answers to questions about the position or information the member includes in other questions.

✓ Organization- Answers should be clearly organized to present clear and concise answers. This should also enhance the effect of an answer.

✓ Voice- Answers should have good volume and use voice techniques to enhance answers such as timing, appropriate tone, voice inflection and appropriate language.

✓ Manner and Appearance- Youth should present themselves in dress and in mannerisms with a professional demeanor and personal style. Please note that members are encouraged to wear professional dress or the 4-H uniform, but are not required to do so.

☐ Cover Letters
Each member will submit a cover letter with their résumé in the interview. The rubric evaluates this in:

✓ Cover Letter- The cover letter should bring the résumé to life. It should follow a concise manner, but be professional and friendly. The cover letter should be free of grammar and spelling errors. It should also be creative, organized and contributes to a professional presentation.

Please note that members are encouraged to have résumé s and cover letters typed on appropriate paper.

☐ Résumés
Each member will submit a résumé with their cover letter in the interview. The rubric evaluates this in:

✓ Résumé- The résumé is the members chance to shine and indicate all of their accomplishments and activities. It should be free of grammar and spelling errors. The résumé should also be creative, organized and contribute to a professional presentation.

Please note that members are encouraged to have résumé s and cover letters typed on appropriate paper.
Job Description

You will find sample Job Descriptions in Appendix Two. There are positions for Juniors, Intermediates and Seniors. You can also design some of your own! All were designed with the same easy to follow format. An explanation of this format is below.

Company Name and Position Title These are fictitious, but represent a position that a youth could apply for.

Position Overview
This overview describes the daily tasks of the position. This can be a source of questions based on duties and experience with these tasks.

Essential Job Functions
This is the bulleted list where specific tasks and skills are listed for this position. This is another source for position questions based on experience and skills needed for this position. This is where members should be identifying similarities to what they like and can do that are needed in the position.

Other Necessary Skills
This bulleted list of skills is more general than job specific and should correspond to the life skills wheel, citizenship and leadership taught in 4-H. This is an area where most members should have experience examples to share with you.

The Job Descriptions are used for:
- Questions Specific to the Position
- Experiences Relevant to the Position, 4-H and Other Organizations
- Knowledge of Position and Preparation
- Realization of 4-H Life Skills and Their Importance
- A Connection For Youth to This Contest and Real Positions

Interview Questions

Interview Questions can be about the member, the member’s skills and experiences and about the position. Some youth will answer questions really quickly, while others will elaborate on experiences and will have answers that take more time.

Have about 10 questions ready, but 6 important questions that you would like answers to, if time gets short. You can also have the number of questions based on age categories. (Ex: Juniors: 6 questions, Intermediates: 8 questions and Seniors: 10 questions)

The Appendix has many questions for you to choose from in these categories or you can design your own!

Questions that address the member should:
- Be about them, their goals and activities
- These will help calm nerves because it is talking about them, not their position knowledge
- Provide an insight to their personality, character, and values
  Examples are: “Tell us about yourself and your activities.” or “Who are your role models and why?”

Questions that address the position should:
- Address skills or duties required in the job description
- Be relevant to the age of the member
- Test preparation and knowledge of the position
  Examples are: “What interests you most about the position?” or “If the children you were babysitting finished their homework early, what would you do?”

Questions that address experiences and skills should:
- Address skills in the job description under job functions or necessary skills
- Be relevant to the position, but also relevant to the life skills learned through 4-H and other activities
- These allow youth to bring their résumé to life by sharing an experience or lesson learned
  Examples are: “Describe your animal experience.” Or “Tell us about a time when you had to learn something new to accomplish a task.”

Don’t feel rigid to the question agenda! Feel free to ask more questions and really get to know the member. This shows that you are engaged and helps them share more of their experiences with you!
Judging Cover Letters

Katherine Yu
HR Director
ABC Company
1530 State Street
Princeton, NJ 08540

Dear Ms. Yu:

Your advertisement for an HR assistant fits my qualifications perfectly, and I am writing to express my interest in and enthusiasm for the position.

After completing a business degree from Rutgers University in May, I enrolled in a human resource development program to further enhance my credentials in the field. Course highlights include: Leadership in an Organizational Setting, Performance & Task Analysis in Human Resource Development, and Technology in HR Settings.

Based on your description of the ideal candidate, I also offer:

• A solid educational foundation in organizational development, employee training and development skills and knowledge of how to use technology to improve individual/organizational performance.
• A proven ability to build rapport with individuals from all cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds.
• A track record of excellent performance as a part-time/summer employee concurrent with full-time college enrollment.
• Technical proficiency in database programs (including Oracle) and MS Office Suite.

If you agree that my services would be valuable to ABC Company, I would very much like to meet in person to learn more about your HR support needs. Please feel free to call me at 355-555-3555 or email at josh@monster.com.

Thank you for your time and review of the enclosed resume, and I look forward to speaking with you.

Sincerely yours,
Josh Michaels

Enclosure

• Personalized letterhead or business letter templates are both acceptable.
• Find the name of the person receiving the résumé, and address it to them.
• In the Introduction, introduce yourself and the position you are applying for.
• In the body, share an experience that taught or exemplified a skill you have that is needed in the position from the position description. Think and share what makes you the perfect fit for this position.
• In the closing, indicate that you are looking forward to meeting the person interviewing and excited to interview for the position.
• Always personally sign your name with blue or black ink and type your name underneath your signature.

Check to make sure these tips are followed, but that overall it is:

• Creative
• Organized
• Contributes to a Professional Presentation

Comments and constructive criticism is greatly appreciated! The cover letter is meant to be sent with the résumé to bring it to life. It should be professional, but friendly, concise and focus on the employer’s needs. Check to make sure they proofread for grammar and spelling.

Appropriate Appearance in Business Settings
General Guidelines

1. Appearance should be appropriate for the organization’s culture.

2. Appearance should be appropriate for the specific occasion.

3. Appearance should not be visually distracting.

4. Attention to detail is important (e.g. polished shoes, clean/groomed nails and hair, snugly tied neck-tie, buttons in line, etc.)

5. Remember: “Less is more” when it comes to cologne/perfume, make-up, accessories, etc.

6. When in doubt, be conservative; avoid revealing clothing.

7. When in doubt, overdress rather than underdress; however make an effort not to appear more formal than those in managerial positions. (Layers work well: if you notice the manager is not wearing a coat, remove yours as well.)

8. Know the tendencies of the particular geographical location (e.g. more conservative Northern California vs. more flamboyant Southern California).

9. When buying, choose classic styles rather than “trendy” choices.

Recruiter Roundtable: Fashion, Grooming Tips

Yahoo! HotJobs, Yahoo! HotJobs

The Recruiter Roundtable is a monthly feature that collects career and job-seeking advice from a group of recruiting experts throughout the United States. The question we put before our panel this month is:

What is the one piece of fashion and/or grooming advice you wish more candidates would heed before going on an interview?

Get the Details Right
The night before the interview, lay out your wardrobe to make sure everything fits, is free of wrinkles and is current with today's styles. Also take the time to polish your shoes. While this may sound minor, showing up with scuffed shoes may signal to the employer you lack attention to detail. Finally, remember that the interview is not your time to make a fashion statement, so avoid tight clothing, limit your jewelry, and go easy on fragrances.

The interview is your opportunity to show hiring managers how talented you are, and maintaining proper appearance will ensure they focus on your abilities rather than your attire.
-- DeLynn Senna, executive director of North American permanent placement services, Robert Half International

Accessorize With Mints
I wish more candidates would take a strong breath mint before their interviews. It may sound silly, but you would be surprised how distracting bad breath can be during an interview! Gum also works, but remember to discard your gum BEFORE the interview.
-- Bob Hancock, independent staffing consultant

What Are Your Revealing?
Look in the mirror: If too much is showing, don't wear it! While low-cut blouses or shirts are in fashion, most are inappropriate for the workplace, including the initial interview. The interviewer could possibly be distracted by the inappropriateness of the candidate's attire and therefore not focused 100% on the interview. This is unfortunate for both parties; the candidate may not be getting the positive reaction to answers they want, and the interviewer may be less apt to probe for the information they need to make a solid hiring decision.
-- Joelle Thies, staffing specialist recruiter, Wells Fargo

The Smell of Success Is Scent-Free
If your perfume or cologne enters the room before you do, chances are your scent may be interfering with your chances of landing the job. You'll see subtle signs from the interviewer -- he'll lean away from you, she'll wrinkle her nose or open a window. If someone on the interview team has allergies or asthma, and if you're meeting with them in a small room, your strong scent will be just the excuse they need to leave the room quickly, without them getting a chance to hear the details about the brilliant marketing campaign you developed at your last company.

The focus during the interview -- and afterward when the interview team gets together to discuss your interview -- should be on your accomplishments, abilities, and why you're the right person for the job. So keep it scent-free.
-- Cheryl Ferguson, recruiter, The Recruiter's Studio

Resume Guidelines

An excellent resume reflects your unique experience and style. Be descriptive and focused in communicating what makes you stand out as the best candidate for the position you are applying for. Don't underestimate the power of a really great resume!

TIPS
- Customize your resume to match the job/employer
- Be specific, with examples of accomplishments, skills and results
- Be descriptive, using action verbs
- Quantity results whenever possible (e.g., "increased sales by 10%")
- Proofread carefully for grammatical and spelling errors
- Be clear and concise (generally one page)
- Attend a Career Services resume workshop, resume clinic, or make an appointment with a Career Counselor.

SECTIONS
- Contact Information (include your email)
- Objective (tailor it to the job you are applying for)
- Education
- Experience
- Projects (team and individual)
- Categories unique to your resume (Foreign Languages, Laboratory Skills, Athletic Accomplishments, International Experience, Honors, Research, Publications, Military Experience)
- Leadership Involvement (campus organizations, clubs, professional affiliations)
- Computer/Technical Skills
- Community Service

Most Common Resume Lies

Kate DuBose Tomassi 05.23.06, 3:00 PM ET

From foolish fibs to full-on fraud, lying on your résumé is one of the most common ways that people stretch the truth. But think twice before you ship off your next half-baked job application. Even if your moral compass doesn't keep you from deceit, the fact that human resources is on to the game should.

The percentage of people who lie to potential employers is substantial, says Sunny Bates, CEO of New York-based executive recruitment firm Sunny Bates Associates. She estimates that 40% of all résumés aren't altogether aboveboard.

And this game of employment Russian roulette is getting riskier and riskier. Almost 40% of human resources professionals surveyed last year by the Society for Human Resource Management reported they've increased the amount of time they spend checking references over the past three years.

View a slide show of the most common résumé lies.

"Résumés are marketing tools designed to do one thing: make the phone ring," says John Seraichyk, founder of the Barrett Group and co-founder of Executives Only, both Rhode Island-based recruiting firms. Once it does, you'd better be ready to back up your paper claims. Susan Vojbeda, vice president of marketing at Yahoo! HotJobs, warns that even a white lie can follow people throughout their career. Simply put: Don't do it, she says.

One of the most common résumé lies involves playing with dates to hide employment gaps. The reasons are myriad: hiding being fired, a period of job hopping or even an embarrassing prison stay. Some women stretch time lines because they fear it will be difficult to reenter the workplace after starting a family, says Seraichyk.

Even though it's one of the easiest items on a résumé to check, bogus college degree claims are also prevalent. John Challenger, chief executive of Challenger, Gray & Christmas, a Chicago-based outplacement firm, says that not having a diploma is one of the things many applicants are most ashamed about.

Ask Dave Edmondson, the former chief executive of RadioShack. He resigned in February after questions arose about the accuracy of his résumé. According to media reports, his claim to have a degree in psychology from Pacific Coast Baptist College in California wasn't true. Nor was there evidence he received a degree in theology from the same unaccredited college, which in 1998 moved from California to Oklahoma City and was renamed Heartland Baptist Bible College.

Fear of ageism can lead to lies by omission. Older job seekers may fudge or leave off the year they received their degree, or lop off their early work history, to appear younger on paper, says Seraichyk. While it's easy to sympathize, it's also important to remember that the truth behind these lies will quickly become evident at the interview.

Another widespread set of tall tales is embellishment of experience and accomplishments, says Jenny Sullivan, a spokeswoman for Chicago-based CareerBuilder.com, a joint venture between The Tribune Co., Gannett and Knight Ridder. For example, a mediocre salesperson might claim she increased sales by 80%, or a small-office sales director might say he managed 50 people, says Seraichyk.

Some job hunters will say they were paid a higher salary at a previous job in an attempt to get more money, says Sullivan. One particularly popular move is to combine one's salary and bonus. But employers are wising up. Todd Bermont, author of 10 Insider Secrets to a Winning Job Search, says it's becoming more common for companies and recruiters to ask for a recent pay stub or tax return. Imagine talking your way out of that.

Considering that a résumé is usually a single sheet of paper, there are surprisingly many opportunities for yarn-spinning. Recent college grads will raise their grade point averages or claim honors they didn't receive, says Bermond. And some people blur the line between familiarity and proficiency when it comes to technical expertise, such as knowledge of software programs, he says.

Even claims of language proficiency aren't immune. Sullivan says she knows of a candidate who claimed fluency in Spanish on his résumé. During an interview, when the hiring manager began speaking to him en español, the truth came out. He didn't know a word.

And in one case, a pre-op transsexual woman who called herself Charlene walked into the office of Mary Lou Nash, a Kansas City-based headhunter, who was surprised to meet a 6-foot-4 man whose given name was Charles. While not exactly a lie, surprising a potential employer with a detail like that might be risky.

So why do people do it? Why all the fiction? Simply put, in today's environment, where unemployment is low and people change jobs often, fear often leads to desperation, says Challenger.

But whether you get caught in the interview, on the job or years down the road, Bermond recommends heeding his mother's adage: "Whenever you tell the truth, you don't have to remember what you said."

"Most Common Resume Lies" Kate DuBose Tomassi, Forbes Magazine and Forbes.com, May 2006
Cover Letter Guidelines

Always send a cover letter along with an application or resume to an employer. Its purpose is to introduce you and show the prospective employer how your background fits their particular job. Use the cover letter to expand on points from your resume that you feel are especially noteworthy or relevant. You can also let the employer know that you are willing to relocate or that you have a mutual acquaintance. You should demonstrate that you have done your homework on the organization and know how you can be an asset to the employer. Prepare an original cover letter for each job – NOT a form letter.

Cover letters for advertised listings

1. Research the employer

Research the prospective employer’s organization to see how your skills and abilities meet the organization’s needs, and how well your values match those promoted by the organization. In your cover letter, show why you are a good fit. Send the letter to a specific person whenever possible; otherwise, use “Dear Hiring Manager” or “Dear Human Resources Manager.”

2. Analyze the job description

Take a good look at the job responsibilities and qualifications and design your cover letter to match these as much as you can. Often job listings are short and vague. In this case, draw from your research of similar jobs to infer what skills and abilities might be required. For instance, if you were looking for a job with a bank, it would be appropriate to mention courses and past experience related to finance.

3. Analyze your background

Think about your background in relation to the job responsibilities and qualifications. Ask yourself, “What have I done that is similar to what this job entails?” Consider courses taken, classroom projects, past work experience, summer jobs, internships, volunteer experience, extracurricular involvement (on- and off-campus) and travel.

Beyond Advertised Listings

Networking and research leads

You will also write cover letters to employers that you identify in your independent job search. Through networking or research, you will learn of specific openings or job titles that interest you. Be sure to indicate in the first paragraph what position you’re seeking. If a specific person alerted you to the job opening, include that person’s name and professional affiliation (e.g., “Professor Jane Seymour in Cal Poly’s Civil Engineering Department suggested I contact you about your Sanitary Engineer opening”). Employers receive many letters and resumes. They are more likely to read letters that mention specific people they know.

Cover Letters

Prospecting Letters

If you are inquiring about possible openings, you are sending an Inquiry or Prospecting Letter. Address your letter to a specific individual, usually the person who supervises the functional area where you’d like to work. Be as specific as possible about the type of position that interests you. Ideally, your research will reveal the job titles used by this employer. If not, use commonly understood generic job titles in the field. The more specific you are, the clearer it will be that you’ve done your homework and that you know what the employer needs and what you have to offer.

Emailed Cover letters

When applying for employment via email, copy and paste your cover letter into the email message or write your cover letter in the body of an email message. Make sure you include a signature with your email address and phone number. Include the title of the position you are applying for in the subject line of your message. Use a simple font and remove the fancy formatting. Send the message to yourself first to test that the formatting works. If everything looks good, resend to the employer. Make sure you spell check and check your grammar and capitalization. They are just as important in an email cover letter as in paper cover letters.

COVER LETTER DOS AND DON’TS

Do

- Use paper that matches your resume
- Write an original cover letter for each employer and position
- State in the first sentence why you are writing
- Show that you know your career goals and how they relate to the position and the organization
- Demonstrate originality and enthusiasm
- Make your points succinct, every point should support your application
- Proofread for typos and accuracy of address and telephone numbers
- Run Spell Check on your computer before you print your final copy, but remember it cannot detect the wrong form of the word or a homonym
- Print envelopes using a computer printer
- Keep copies of all materials for your records
- Follow up with the employer if you hear nothing after a couple of weeks. Inquire if any further information is needed and reiterate your interest.

Don’t

- Make the letter more than one page
- Use generic, all-purpose cover letters – never copy cover letters
- Exaggerate your skills or experience

Month Date, Year

Mr./Ms./Dr. First and Last Name of Person
Position or Title
Employer/Organization’s Name
Employer Street Address/P.O. Box
City, State Zip Code

Dear Mr./Ms./Dr. Last Name of Addressee:

Tell the reader why you are writing (i.e., regarding the position in which you are interested; if appropriate, indicate how you learned of the position and/or organization). Make a general statement about being a good candidate for the job.

Explain why you have targeted this particular organization: in so doing, demonstrate your knowledge of its products, services and operations. (This means you must research the potential employer.) Stress what you have to offer, not what you want from the employer. Identify those parts of your experience (paid or non-paid) which will be of interest to this employer. Students and recent graduates should draw attention to relevant coursework, special projects and campus activities. In some cases, you will add detail to items.

Demonstrate your understanding of the duties of the position in which you are interested, and state how your unique qualifications fit the position. Request an interview appointment, or tell the reader that you will contact him/her soon in order to see if you can schedule a mutually convenient appointment. If the employer is some distance away, indicate when you would be available for an interview. (For example, if you will be traveling to the employer’s location during an academic holiday, indicate the days you will be in that area.) Thank the reader for his/her time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Following are sample introductory paragraphs for cover letters. Please note: they are intended to serve as examples, not to be copied verbatim.

- At the suggestion of Jamie Wilson, I am submitting my resume for a position in the GN&G Components and Integration Group at the Dulles, VA location. With a solid education from Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, I am seeking an entry-level Aerospace Engineering position with Orbital Sciences Corporation.
- My commitment to bringing history alive for students, my extensive hands-on work at the State Department, and the knowledge that I gained as an honors history student at Cal Poly - San Luis Obispo, prompt me to apply for the Lucia Mar School District’s high school social studies teaching position listed on EdJoin.org. I am confident that my lesson-planning abilities, classroom management skills, and engaging teaching style will greatly support Lucia Mar’s tradition of academic excellence.

Following are sample middle paragraphs for cover letters.

- I took a number of laboratory-based classes while at Cal Poly, designing, developing, and implementing tests in a number of aerospace-related subjects. I have experimented in Cal Poly’s wind tunnels (subsonic, supersonic, and water), as well as the propulsion test cell, and composites laboratory. The grading standard for Cal Poly lab reports is industry quality, giving me professional-level experience in report organization and formatting. I have also used LabView software in conjunction with experiments as a means of data collection. When it comes to testing, I have a consistent work ethic and do not get discouraged easily.
- As an intern I became familiar with the programs FCNI offers, the services you provide, the families you serve, and the philosophy behind your organization. I believe my experience and values would make me a strong contributor to the Family Care Network team. Over the past seven years, I have sought out opportunities to work with at-risk populations. I have been able to develop practical skills and gain experience working with children and youth in preschools, camps, U.S. urban areas, and in Africa. My Child Development degree has given me an academic foundation with the theoretical background necessary to work effectively in this field. After completing my senior research project on resilience in children, I believe more than ever in the work that FCNI is doing and the potential it has to make meaningful changes in the lives of children and families.

Following are sample ending paragraphs for cover letters.

- I have attached my resume for your review. I will be contacting you within two weeks to set up a time to further discuss my qualifications for entry-level positions with Project Management Advisors, Inc. Thank you very much for your time, and I look forward to meeting with the representatives of your company in the near future.
- Enclosed is my resume, and I look forward to discussing my qualifications with you. I will call you in a week to confirm receipt of this information and discuss possible next steps. Thank you very much for your time and consideration.

Lewis Global Public Relations
575 Market St. Suite 2550
San Francisco, CA 94105

Dear Hiring Manager:

It is with great enthusiasm that I submit my resume for your public relations and marketing internship currently advertised on the Lewis Global PR website. I have been interested in your company since I discovered in the San Francisco Business Journal that you are one of the fastest growing public relations companies in San Francisco. As a senior at California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo working on a Communications Studies degree and Spanish minor, I plan to pursue a career in public relations and marketing.

My public relations projects, communications-based coursework, Spanish proficiency, and enthusiasm for the field have prepared me for this internship. I am currently working with the NCAA Division 1 Athletic Department on campus to promote attendance at women’s basketball games. This experience has given me the opportunity to apply marketing tactics and develop strategies to create a successful campaign. My communications coursework has taught me about the processes and effects of communication, and has prepared me to enter public relations with strong verbal and written communication skills. My Spanish proficiency would be non-existent had it not been for my year in Spain which also gave me an understanding and appreciation of other cultures and the global markets that they operate in. All these facets to my education have molded my understanding and interest in public relations, and have paved the way for my career into the field.

Enclosed is my resume for your review. I will be in the San Francisco area for the week of March 26th, and would be excited to arrange an interview with you to discuss the internship opportunity. Of course, I am also available at your convenience. Thank you very much for your time, and I look forward to meeting you soon.

Sincerely

Jordan Miller

San Diego, CA 92101

Dear Mr. Elliot:

I am impressed with the diversity of services your firm offers to its clients including interior design, landscape architecture, and most notably commercial, high-rise architecture. I have seen your buildings in the San Diego area and especially like the new Law Library in La Jolla because of its architectural beauty and sustainability. I am interested in a summer internship position and would greatly value the opportunity to work with your professional staff of architects and designers.

I am completing my first year of Architecture at Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo and have computer skills using Photoshop, Form Z, and Freehand. I have experience in hand drafting and sketching, and am currently working on projects involving model building and drawing.

I look forward to talking with you soon and will contact you within the next week. Please contact me anytime at 619.318.2055 or cclaytor@calpoly.edu. Thank you for your time and consideration.

From: John Watkins [jwatkins@yahoo.com]
Subject: Experienced Sales Rep for Pharmaceutical Primary Care Sales Representative (50281707)
To: susan.jones@elilly.com
Content-Type: text/plain; charset=us-ascii

Dear Ms. Jones,

Having broken sales records and exceeded sales quotas in my previous positions and recently completed my Bachelor’s degree in Business Administration with a concentration in Marketing, I am an ideal candidate for the Pharmaceutical Primary Care Sales Representative position with El Lilly and Company. I found the position on Mustang Jobs on the Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo website.

As the leading sales representative for Campus Tours, I developed key sales material, trained new sales reps, and reinvented the way college vacation tours are sold. My team’s revenue was more than double the average for the entire operation.

The pharmaceutical industry is dynamic and growing, and I am convinced I can apply my sales background and business education effectively, contributing to El Lilly’s success.

I would appreciate the chance to meet with you to discuss ways I can contribute to your sales team. I will contact you in the next 10 days to arrange an interview. Should you have any questions before that time, please feel free to call me at 805-756-xxxx or email me. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Cordially,

John Watkins

Ms. Glenna Wright
Human Resources Manager
Fashion Department Store
2000 Line Drive
Fairfax, VA 22030

Dear Ms. Wright:

I enjoyed interviewing with you during your recruiting visit to Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo on October 25. The management trainee program you outlined sounds both challenging and rewarding, and I look forward to your decision concerning an on-site visit.

As mentioned during the interview, I will be graduating in December with a Bachelor’s degree in Business Administration with a double concentration in Management and Marketing. Through my education and work experience I have gained many skills, as well as an understanding of retailing concepts and dealing with the general public. I have worked for seven years in the retail industry in various positions from Sales Clerk to Assistant Department Manager. I think my education and work experience would complement Fashion’s management trainee program.

I have enclosed a copy of my college transcript and a list of references that you requested.

Thank you again for the opportunity to interview with Fashion Department Store. The interview served to reinforce my strong interest in becoming part of your management team. I can be reached at (805) 544-1111 or by email at mboles@calpoly.edu should you need additional information.

Sincerely,

HR Director
ABC Company
1530 State Street
Princeton, NJ 08999

Dear Ms. Yu:

Your advertisement for an HR assistant fits my qualifications perfectly, and I am writing to express my interest in and enthusiasm for the position.

After completing a business degree from Rutgers University in May, I enrolled in a human resource development program to further enhance my credentials in the field.

Course highlights include: Leadership in an Organizational Setting, Performance & Task Analysis in Human Resource Development, and Technology in HR Settings.

Based on your description of the ideal candidate, I also offer:

- A solid educational foundation in organizational development, employee training and development skills and knowledge of how to use technology to improve individual/organizational performance.
- A proven ability to build rapport with individuals from all cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds.
- A track record of excellent performance as a part-time/summer employee concurrent with full-time college enrollment.
- Technical proficiency in database programs (including Oracle) and MS Office Suite.

If you agree that my services would be valuable to ABC Company, I would very much like to meet in person to learn more about your HR support needs. Please feel free to call me at 555-555-5555 or email at josh@monster.com.

Thank you for your time and review of the enclosed resume, and I look forward to speaking with you.

Sincerely yours,

Josh Michaels

The Savvy Networker

Liz Ryan, Yahoo! HotJobs

You know enough to bring a list of questions to a job interview. When the interviewer asks you, "So, do you have any questions for me?" the last thing you want to say is "No." But that could be the best option if you're at a loss for words, because some interview questions are better left unasked.

Here are 10 highly unsuitable interview questions that should never make an appearance, unless you don't want the job:

1. "What does your company do?"
   This was a reasonable interview question in 1950 or in 1980, before the Internet existed. Today, it's your job to research any company you're interviewing with before setting foot in the door. We need to show up for a job interview knowing what the employer does, who its competitors are, and which of its accomplishments (or challenges) have made the news lately.

2. "Are you going to do a background check?"
   It is amazing how many job candidates ask this question, which provokes alarm on the part of the interviewer, instead of the more general, "Can you please tell me a little about your selection process, from this point on?" Lots of people have credit issues that cause them worry during a job search, or aren't sure how solid their references from a previous job might be. If you're invited for a second interview, you can broach any sensitive topics from your past then. Asking "Will you do a background check?" makes you look like a person with something to hide.

3. "When will I be eligible for a raise?"
   Companies fear underpaying people almost as much as they fear overpaying them, because a person who's underpaid vis-a-vis his counterparts in the job market is a person with one eye on the career sites. Instead of asking about your first raise before you've got the job, you can ask (at a second interview) "Does your organization do a conventional one-year performance and salary review?"

4. "Do you have any other jobs available?"
   A job search requires quick thinking about straight talk, and if a job is far below your abilities, you're better off saying so than beating around the bush with this question. You don't have to take yourself out of the running; you can say, "The job sounds interesting, but frankly I was earning 30% more and supervising people in my last job. Could you help me understand the career path for this role?" That's the cue for the interviewer, if he or she is on the ball, to highlight another job opening that might exist.

5. "How soon can I transfer to another position?"
   You're broadcasting "I'm outta here at the first chance" when you ask this question. If you like the job, take the job. If it's not for you, wait for the right opportunity. Almost every employer will keep you in your seat for at least one year before approving an internal transfer, so a job-search bait-and-switch probably won't work out the way you'd hoped.

6. "Can you tell me about bus lines to your facility?"
   Get online and research this yourself. It's not your employer's problem to figure out how you get to work.

7. "Do you have smoking breaks?"
   If you're working in retail or in a call center, you could ask about breaks. Everyone else, keep mum; if your need to smoke intrudes so much on your work life that you feel the need to ask about it, ask your best friend or significant other for smoking-cessation help as a new-job present. Lots of companies don't permit smoking anywhere on the premises, and some don't like to hire smokers at all. Why give an employer a reason to turn you down?

8. "Is [my medical condition] covered under your insurance?"
   This is a bad question on two counts. You don't want to tell a perfect stranger about your medical issues, especially one who's deciding whether or not to hire you. Ask to see a copy of the company's benefits booklet when an offer has been extended. This is also a bad question from a judgment standpoint; no department managers and only a tiny percentage of HR people could be expected to know on a condition-by-condition basis what's covered under the health plan. Anyway, your pre-existing condition won't be covered under most corporate plans for at least a year.

9. "Do you do a drug test?"
   If you have a philosophical objection to drug tests, wait until they ask you to take a drug test and tell them about your objection. Otherwise, your question sounds like, "I'd fail a drug test," so don't ask.

10. "If you hire me, can I wait until [more than three weeks from now] to start the job?"
   Employers expect you to give two weeks' notice. If you're not working, they'd love to see you more quickly. If you ask for tons of time off before you start working -- unless you have a very good reason -- the employer may think, "How serious is this candidate about working?" In any case, a start-date extension is something to request after you've got the offer in hand, not before.

How to Answer the Toughest Interview Questions

By Caroline Levchuck

You know they're coming: Those seemingly unanswerable questions that pop up during job interviews. You can't clam up. And you don't want to stutter and stammer. So what's a job seeker to do?

The "Future" Question

Otherwise known as the "big picture" question, the future question goes something like this: "Where do you see yourself in five years?"

The best tactic: Talk about your values.

Don't get too detailed about your specific career plan. Instead, discuss things that are important to you professionally and how you plan to achieve them. If growth is a goal, mention that. You can also talk about challenge, another value that employers prize in their employees.

The "Salary" Question

Most people will tell you that whoever answers this question first loses. But that's not necessarily true.

When an interviewer asks your salary requirement, try first to gently deflect the question by inquiring about the salary for the position. If the interviewer presses you for a number, give a range. To decide on a range, think about the salary you want, your salary at your most recent position and the industry-standard salary for the job.

The bottom line: The salary question is one of the most important, so you should prepare for it in advance and plan what to say.

The "Why" Question

There's a fine line between boastful and confident. And you need to learn it.

When an interviewer asks you why they should hire you, you're going to have speak confidently and honestly about your abilities. But you should avoid sounding overly boastful.

Aim for earnest and prepare by practicing. That's right: Stand in front of the mirror and acknowledge your abilities and accomplishments to your reflection. Tell yourself: I have a very strong work ethic. I have integrity. I have excellent industry contacts. I aggressively pursue my goals.

It's sometimes hard to praise yourself, but after a few sessions you'll sound sincere.

The Seemingly Silly Question

If you were a tree, what kind of tree would you be? What if you were a car? Or an animal?

These type of questions can bring your interview to a screeching halt.

First, don't panic. Pause and take a deep breath. Then remind yourself that there's no "right" answer to these questions. The job isn't hiring or whether you choose to be a spruce versus an oak.

Interviewers usually ask these questions to see how you react under pressure and how well you handle the unexpected. It's not so important what type of tree (or car, or animal) you choose as that you explain your choice in a way that makes you look favorable.

So, be a spruce -- because you want to reach new heights in your career. Or be an oak -- because you plan to put down roots at the company. Either way, you'll get it right.
An Interview Strategy: Telling Stories

A Job Interview Is Not an Interrogation

By Joe Turner

If you read many books on job interviews, you'll notice that some feed you lists of interview questions that you should learn answers to. But an interview is not an interrogation; it's a conversation. Thus, I believe the best way to prepare for an interview is to come armed with a multitude of small stories about both your business and personal life.

Conversation Wins the Job

Competency-based interviews, as opposed to traditional interviews, have become more common today. In a traditional interview, the interviewer will ask you questions focused on whether you have the skills and knowledge needed to do the job. A competency-based interview goes further by asking you additional questions about your character and personal attributes that can better determine whether you fit their corporate culture. These are called "behavioral competencies."

A competency-based interviewer will spend about half the interview on your job skills, and about half on your behavioral competencies. He or she will be looking for evidence of how you have acted in real situations in the past. So having your stories ready to go, and discussing them during a conversation between two equals, plays very well for this type of interview.

The Interviewer's Priorities

An employer wants to find out:

- Are you an asset or liability? In other words, will you either make money or save money for the company?
- Are you a team player? Will you fit into the corporate hierarchy or be like sand in the gears? Can you take and give (if appropriate) orders?
- Will you fit into the company culture? They don't want prima donnas.

Your Story Strategy

The best way for an interviewer to get answers to the questions above is for you, the interviewee, to take the initiative. You should have several personal stories that you can tell as examples of your successes, and each story should last between 30 to 90 seconds.

You should start by developing your stories around these areas:

- Examples of when you either made money or saved money for your current or previous employer.
- A crisis in your life or job and how you responded or recovered from it.
- A time where you functioned as part of a team and what your contribution was.
- A time in your career or job where you had to overcome stress.
- A time in your job where you provided successful leadership or a sense of direction.
- A failure that occurred in your job and how you overcame it.
- Any seminal events that happened during your career to cause you to change direction and how that worked out for you.

Actions speak louder than words. Your actions in the past -- relayed in story form -- will tell a company much more than any generic response. Your stories will give the interviewer the tangible examples he or she seeks, and they will convey a very strong sense of your individuality, making you stand out more.

Successful Interviewing

BEFORE THE INTERVIEW

- Attend an Interview Skills Workshop at Career Services
- View the "Interview Skills Online Workshop" on the Career Services website, www.careerservices.calpoly.edu
- View additional interviewing resources available in the Career Resource Center, Building 124, Room 117
- Research the position, the organization and the community
- Find "insider" information which might include company mission statement, strategic objectives, and corporate values
- Know the information on your resume
- Create a list of the skills/qualities you have to offer an employer that relate to the position for which you are interviewing (organization, leadership, computer knowledge, dependability, flexibility, etc.)
- Think about one or two weaknesses and what you have done to successfully overcome them
- Be prepared to describe personal, workplace, and education related challenges you overcame. Consider examples relevant to the employer/job when possible
- Research salary information so that, if asked, you have a reasonable range in mind
- Prepare questions to ask the employer (refer to the following pages)
- Practice, practice, practice

DURING THE INTERVIEW

- Arrive early
- Meet the interviewer with a firm handshake, a friendly smile and a polite greeting
- Don’t speak negatively about your peers, faculty, former employers or other companies
- Use body language to show interest (appropriate posture and eye contact)
- Listen attentively to the questions; ask for clarification if necessary
- Give complete answers, use specific examples, and cite accomplishments whenever possible
- Use projects, photos, descriptions, statistics and testimonials to support your claims
- Answer questions with honesty and sincerity; be yourself
- Be aware of the time allocated
- Ask about the next step in the process
- Thank the interviewer and collect a business card
- Conclude the interview on a strong, positive note

AFTER THE INTERVIEW

- Take a moment to make some notes after each interview
- Write and send a thank you letter within one to two days to everyone who interviewed you
- Forward any requested materials promptly
- If you have not heard from the company within two to three weeks, contact the interviewer and inquire about the status of the position
- Keep a record of all interviews, correspondence and subsequent follow-up
- Be persistent and maintain an optimistic outlook
PROFESSIONAL IMAGE
- Take time to be well groomed: moderate makeup, light or no perfume or aftershave, ironed clothes, polished shoes
- Dress in business attire: for males the usual dress is a suit or sports coat and slacks; for females it is a suit or pantsuit
- Select shoes, handbags, briefcases and watches that are conservative and coordinate - avoid flashy jewelry and accessories
- Bring a portfolio/folder with extra copies of your resume
- Be courteous to everyone you meet: receptionists, secretaries and others
- Be confident, poised and enthusiastic
- Be professional and use professional language

THE TELEPHONE INTERVIEW
- Conduct your interview in a place that is free of distractions and background noise, and where you will have good reception if you are using a cell phone
- Be prepared by keeping resume and notes by the telephone
- Clarify and write down the name(s) of the interviewer(s) to whom you are speaking
- Speak clearly and directly into the telephone
- Exhibit personality and energy through voice tone and inflection
- Take notes

BEHAVIORAL INTERVIEWING STRATEGIES
Employers use behavioral interviews to evaluate a candidate’s experiences and behaviors so they can determine the applicant’s potential for success. Behavioral questions will center around skills, qualities, and abilities important for success on the job. For example, if teamwork is important to a job, they might ask “Tell me about a time you worked on a team and you encountered conflict. How did you handle it?”

- Utilize the STAR technique in answering behavioral questions: State the Situation, the Task assigned, Action taken, and the end Result. Below is an example of utilizing the STAR technique to answer the teamwork question above:

  Situation/Task: “I was working in a team of five in my Services Marketing class. We were analyzing survey data to determine the effectiveness of customer service for a local retailer. One of our team members continually failed to show up for group meetings or turn in assignments.”

  Action you took: “After talking with other group members, I approached the team member to find out more about their lack of participation. After finding out that they had a family illness they were dealing with, we worked out a plan for them to contribute to the project, but on a smaller scale.”

  Result you achieved: “Our team bonded after understanding the team member’s situation. The team member, after our discussion, contributed significantly to the assignment. We received an A on the project!”

- Review the job description and relate your experiences and skills to the position
- Select situations and experiences in which you have demonstrated the behaviors important to the current job
- Be detailed and specific in discussing how you contributed to the success of the project, situation, or event described
Mastering the Interview

By Sean Bosker

The job interview is your proving ground, the place where you must demonstrate why you are the best person for the job. Making that powerful statement that you’re the best of all the candidates requires the three Ps: Preparation, Presentation and Perception.

PREPARE PREPARE PREPARE

When you walk into an interview, the more prepared you are, the better the chances are that you’ll succeed. Memorize everything you put on your resume and cover letter and be prepared to explain each item. But you should also be ready to talk about more than just yourself. Get to know your future employer.

Warren Davis, the Director of Recruiting and Employment for RadioShack, emphasizes this point. “Your resume and application are fair game. Candidates should study themselves and company with whom they’re interviewing.”

Read industry trade magazines, visit the company web site, and do a company search on Yahoo! Finance to find current news about your prospective employer. Be prepared to demonstrate what you know about the company and the industry.

Michele Stagg, the Director of Human Resources at Banana Republic, says she is consistently impressed when candidates work their skills into the context of company news. “The more an informed candidate can tie past experience to the requirements of the job they are interviewing for, particularly in terms of what the company is doing, the better.”

Another important part of preparation is making sure you look the part. Choosing what you wear is so important that it deserves its own article - Interviewing in Style.

PRESENTATION IS PARAMOUNT

Keep in mind that you are marketing yourself to everyone you meet. The more people you leave with a good impression, the better your chances are of being remembered. Project yourself as someone who is thoughtful, helpful, and prepared.

Effective presentation includes being in the right place, at the right time. If you’re late for the interview, you could inadvertently tell your interviewer that you’re not right for the job.

With 35 years of experience in HR, Peter Ackerson, Specialist Leader at Deloitte Consulting, has been directly involved in hiring hundreds of candidates. When it comes to job interviews, he’s seen it all. “There’s nothing worse than getting a call from someone who is hung up in traffic or went to the wrong office,” he explains.

Once you arrive, introduce yourself to the receptionist and turn off that cell phone. “Having a phone go off during an interview is a real turn off,” says Ackerson.

According to psychologist Albert Mehrabian, more than half of our communication is nonverbal or body language. Stagg agrees. “Body language is exceptionally important. Positive, upright and open body language shows self-confidence and interest.” During introductions give a firm handshake and then take a seat facing the interviewer.

When you go over your resume focus on your accomplishments instead of reiterating job descriptions. Presenting yourself as an active problem solver will show an employer that you can contribute and succeed in the role. Stagg agrees that this technique can make a fantastic impact, “Give very specific examples of your qualifications. If you have qualifications in financial analysis, give examples of projects you worked on where your analysis was necessary. Describe your experiences that tie in to your skills or qualifications. Even better, tell me how those will help you meet the requirements of the role you might fill in our company.”

PERCEPTION IS KEY

The best way to know if your interviewer is getting what he needs is to ask questions. Susan Vobejda, the VP of Marketing at HotJobs elaborates, “When your interviewer asks a complicated question, don’t launch into your answer straightaway. Make certain you understand what is being asked.” A clarifying question, or restating the question in your own words saves you from wasting your interviewer’s time, and demonstrates that you are a careful listener. Asking the right questions can also demonstrate your ability to think strategically, and help you decide if the position is right for you. To that end, Stagg suggests ending the interview with this question: “What are you looking for in a candidate to fill this role?” If the answer turns out to be something that doesn’t match your expectations, then you need to speak up.

Many candidates are so intimidated by the interview, they forget that the interviewer has a stake in seeing the candidate succeed. Peter Ackerson describes his attitude going into an interview as one of “hopeful skepticism.” They don’t want you to fail; they want you to show them why you will succeed with their company. The sooner they hire you, the sooner the search can end.
Minor Matters That Make Your Interview

By Erin Hovanec

Preparing for an interview can be stressful -- and time-consuming. You can spend days researching a company, brainstorming answers to "trick" questions and preparing your portfolio.

With so much to do, it's easy to forget the practical details that can distinguish a successful interview from a tragic one. This article focuses on the minor matters that job seekers often overlook before they sit down in the interview hot seat.

Getting Your Interview Gear Ready

Lay out your clothing in advance. You don't want to be frantically searching for a missing sock or clean shirt on the day of the interview.

Make sure your outfit is clean and neatly pressed and take care of other time-consuming chores (polishing your shoes, trimming your nails) the day before the interview if possible.

Also, gather all the other important materials you'll need for the interview in one place, where you will be sure not to forget them. You might include copies of your resume, references and directions.

Just Call Me "Dragon Breath"

Your parents were right: You don't do as well on an empty stomach.

Make sure you eat before the interview. You don't need to have a huge meal. In fact, a heavy meal or one loaded with carbs can make you feel sluggish and lethargic. But a light meal or snack will ensure that your stomach doesn't start rumbling loudly just as you're about to discuss your most brilliant accomplishment.

If your interview isn't until later in the day, steer clear of stinky bards, such as onions and garlic.

Whatever you plan to eat before the interview should be followed by some mouthwash and a good brushing.

Have Interview, Will Travel

The day of the big interview is not the time to try out a new shortcut or investigate an unfamiliar area.

Make sure you know how to get to your interview in advance. Make a practice run the day before if necessary.

Also, find out exactly where you'll need to go when you arrive at the company.

If you're lucky, you'll walk through the front door and find the receptionist waiting. If you're not so lucky, you'll need to find your way to Lot 8, Building 9, Floor 10, Suite D, Room 125 -- so be sure you know how to get there.

Eyes and Ears Are Everywhere

When it comes to interviewing, a little paranoia can be a good thing.

Your interview starts in the parking lot, so be conscious of your surroundings. Any onlooker could be one of your interviewers. Act accordingly.

Be courteous and professional to everyone you meet, from the security guard to the receptionist. If you make small talk with strangers, be positive and pleasant. This isn't the time to complain about the "funny smell in the lobby" or a long wait for an elevator.

Lastly, turn off your cell phone.
How to Deal With Interview Stress

By Caroline Levchuck

To many job seekers, "stress" is synonymous with "job interview."

Job seekers stress over landing an interview. Then they stress over preparing for it. And then they stress over what to wear, what to say, if the interviewer will like them and more.

But the worst stress of all often occurs during the interview. This is the stress that can cause you to blow it. It can make you freeze, panic, chatter aimlessly, lose your train of thought or perspire profusely.

So how can job seekers keep cool when it counts? Relax. A few simple techniques can help calm fraied nerves and soothe interview jitters.

Early Warning

Timing is everything: Don't cause yourself undue stress before a big interview.

Arrive about 10 minutes before the interview is scheduled to begin.

If you arrive too early, you'll sit and wait and worry. And if you arrive too late, you may find yourself racing in the door, your heart already pounding from a last-minute dash.

A ten-minute, pre-interview break will give you an opportunity to catch your breath and acclimate to your surroundings. It's enough time, but not too much time.

Picture This

You can make your dream a reality. Use your imagination to stay calm during a job interview.

Visualization is a relaxation technique in which you create a mental image of a stressful or challenging situation. Then you imagine yourself succeeding in the situation. By doing so, you're mentally preparing to handle the event in real life.

You can practice visualization in the days, hours or even minutes before an interview. Simply close your eyes and breathe deeply. Picture yourself greeting the interviewer confidently and answering tough questions with ease.

Practice succeeding in your imagination, and soon you'll be doing it in reality.

Relax

A relaxed job candidate is a confident job candidate.

Show the interviewer that you're calm, composed and in command during an interview. He's likely to assume that you'll be rock-solid on the job too.

Use these tips to stay relaxed during an interview:

- Breathing deeply and slowly (and quietly, of course).
- Sit up straight and don't cross your legs or arms.
- Speak slowly and pause for breath often.
- Keep your hands and jaw relaxed; no clenching.
- Smile -- it really is contagious!

Pause, Don't Panic

In every interview, there comes a moment that doesn't go according to plan. There's an awkward silence. You stumble over your words. You flub a tough question.

Don't panic. Now's the time to put your relaxation skills into overdrive.

It's much easier to control fear and panic as it starts to build than to calm yourself down once they've begun to spiral out of control.

When you feel yourself starting to panic and lose focus, pause. Tell yourself silently that you can do this. Take a deep breath. Refocus. And then resume interviewing.

A quick ten-second pause can be all you need to regain your composure and get back in control. And the interviewer likely won't even notice.
